June 19 – 23, 2023 | Budapest, Hungary

After attending the ERRA Summer School you will return back to work with:

- the role of regulators and familiarity with the theory and institutions of regulation
- advantages and disadvantages of the various wholesale market design
- principles of calculating prices and tariffs in the energy sector
- regulatory roles in increasing competition levels in wholesale energy markets
- the value chain, market structure and regulation of natural gas markets – including LNG markets
- challenges of integrating renewable energy, including PPAs and auction designs
- understanding impacts of the energy transition on energy regulators
- introduction to grid development and grid management

Regulation of Energy Storage – Online Training

The course aims to provide participants with the necessary understanding on:

- how to structure regulation for energy storage across different power markets.
- It covers energy storage in its multiple forms, with a technology-neutral approach when it comes to regulatory recommendations around storage.
- It provides participants with the necessary understanding of energy storage technologies both at utility and residential levels, and with the ability to consequently define regulatory measures that ensure energy storage in its multiple forms can be deployed in the power market, and benefit consumers across multiple dimensions, at either wholesale power market level, or at the level of ancillary services to the power grid.
